Prologue

WE have builded this treasure chest, hoping that it may be a tangible link between the reality of today and the memory of tomorrow. In it we have tried to place those things that are to become so dear when time brings them back to you as visions, dim figures breaking upon your reveries in the glow of tomorrow's twilight.

As a violet pressed between the pages of a book grows dear with the passing years because of the happiness it represents, so may this CADMEA be a source of dreams that shall come to you after the vivid joys of your school-days become shadowy memories, both tender and sweet.

So we have builded this little chest, binding it in the strong bands of love, building it of the materials your own hands have fashioned, fastening it with the gold nails of friendships, and placing within it those treasures that become dearer and dearer with the years.

CLASS POEM

The sun in glory fades; the day is done;
The page is finished, and the pen put down.
We've walked the rainbow long to find the end—
We've sought its gold; we find it now in cap and gown.

With prideful gaze we traced the timid lines
That first we wrote on our scholastic page,
And, wistful, smiled o'er those unsteady words,
That, frightened, seemed like children on a stage.

And so, between the pages of the years
We've pressed these happy moments, that like flowers
We might keep long their color and their form.
Yet fragrance fades, slow-vanishing with the hours.

But mem'ries will come to whisper of the past
Their tales of joy and friendships won,
Of worthy deeds. O, may that page be clean!
May hearts grow warm o'er what our hands have done!

We stand upon the lifted hill of youth
And look afar into the future days;
Some loath to leave behind a happiness
They cannot see beyond tomorrow's haze.

Up! Comrades, Up! and with good cheer
Launch out upon divided ways!
In sweetest hours we'll e'er hold dear
These swift-spiced priceless days.

—Haskell Owen.

Class History

The fall of 1925 marked an important date in our lives and one not soon to be forgotten. We, the Senior Class of 1929, became a part of the student body of Tennessee High. Although we were but Sub-Freshmen, we found ourselves often times gazing off into space and wondering how the school had ever gotten along without us. Despite the many "bright" remarks of the Juniors and Seniors, and the fact that the door to a class room seemed to be in the same place for two days in succession, we soon came to the end of the year and to exams. Why, the very word made us tremble, and never a night did we go home without every book. However, we succeeded in passing to our Freshman year.

By this time we felt that we were just as important as anyone else and especially did we enjoy teasing the Sub-Freshmen. Why, we even began to speak of our units and how that we soon would be graduating. Many members of the class began to take up the advanced studies of Algebra and Latin, some of the boys and girls were on the first teams of our football and basket-ball teams and did their part in winning for Tennessee. It was during our Freshman year, too, that we acquired the knowledge of how to be the first one to get your lunch even though your place was at the end of the line.

During our Sophomore year we had decided that school was not such an easy game as we had once heard of, so we settled down to real work. It was while we were Sophomores, that we undertook one of the biggest things in our high school career, that of serving lunch or a real Thanksgiving dinner in the Cafeteria in order to pay off our part of the debt on the Annual. We advertised our lunch highly and even had specially reserved plates. The dinner was truly a success and our class was able, easily, to pay off its part of the money needed; we even had a little left over. We were quite proud of the fact that our class was the first one to hand in the quota and, of course, the encouraging remarks from the faculty and Seniors made us feel as tho we had really accomplished something.

We were fortunate or unfortunate enough, as the case may be, to take part in Mr. Hawk's famous "twilight classes" and we also learned that any ability to draw pictures was quite a help in Latin.

Time rolled on and again we entered the halls of Tennessee High not merely as pupils but as Juniors. A few of the old "gang" had gone elsewhere, to seek their knowledge and one had even been so interested in Dan Cupid as not to get back to school. Many members of the class held offices of high esteem throughout the school and were taking part in our two school publications, the Maroon and White and CADMEA. The fact that the talent in the class was so far superior to any play in which it could be displayed, caused us to give up the idea of having a Junior play and so we decided to display our gifts in full array during our Senior year.

One of the outstanding events of the year was the fact that our football team, and some of the players, members of our class, were able to down Virginia High. In all of the excitement of celebrating this brilliant victory, which was also a moral victory, we almost forgot that we had school the next day; however, some were kind enough to remind us of this.

Another vacation and this time we were entering Tennessee High as Seniors. In spite of the nickname of "dignified Seniors" we had begun to realize that we had only one more year in which to be a part of Tennessee High and thoughts of graduation began to wake within us something deeper than relief from school work, but the realization that it was not the end, in fact that it was only the beginning. We were fortunate enough to have Mr. Tyler as our sponsor and to have as our president for the first term, Joe Talbert.

Our Athletic teams, especially football, under the leadership of Coach Barnhill, gained for themselves wide spread fame. Again State Street was the scene of brilliant celebrations as ol' Tennessee downed Virginia High. The All-City Football also proved quite a success and we learned that yelling with Virginia High was really a pleasure.

After the second term we started electing a senior president. There were just so many capable members in the class that "the head men" wanted to be sure that we got the most capable; so many and various elections marked our senior year. However, we feel sure that we couldn't have made any wiser choice.

Due to the untiring work of some of the members of the class, these being backed by the class as a whole, the Class of '29 has been able to see put into operation an All-Students' Club at Tennessee High of which the executive body or Student Council is made up of a representative from each organization. The officers of the Club are elected by the Student Body as a whole. The Senior Class has been ably backed by every other class in seeing this plan perfected.

Our history would be incomplete without mentioning the Annual Senior Play, presented in Assembly. Under Mr. Tyler's able direction, "Quack, Quack" was presented and up to that time we, ourselves, had hardly realized the ability to act which some of our students possessed. Carl Neal, as an ignorant country boy, showed us that all country boys aren't so dumb and if Hansel doesn't decide to become a doctor I'm afraid he has missed his calling.

Our Senior year has been the most delightful one of our high school career and I feel sure that no Senior will ever look back with anything but the happiest of memories on the days spent in old Tennessee High. As we leave, we realize that some of the happiest moments of our life have been spent here, but, classmates, in leaving may I add:

We've reached the end of our high school days
And must leave, along with the rest;
But as we take our place in life, I hope
Each one will find only the best.

—Margaret Hughlett, Historian.

Last Will and Testament

We, the Senior Class of Bristol, Tennessee, High School, in the State of Tennessee and the County of Sullivan, being of sound mind and realizing the certainty of death and uncertainty of graduation, do now, hereby, make our last will and testament.

First, Harry Weiler and Charles Gore bequeath their time honored positions as class shieks to the likely, promising and apt George Davis, Thomas Wade, and Tom Kuhnert. Second, Mary Ashby wills and bequeaths her profound silence during classes together with amazing knowledge of Chemistry to Mary Wassom. Third, Charles Purvine lovingly wills his famous ability to encourage despondent classmates and his marvelous voice which shall be used both for public singing and shouting through the famous corridors of Old Tennessee High to John Rosser and Robert Hawley. Fourth, Louie Will Treadwell, Miriam Robinson, and Elizabeth McKee leave the responsibility of maintaining the grades that will justify the pride of the Senior Class to Richard Babb and Doris Harold. Fifth, Joseph Y. Talbert, Carl Neal, "Hank" Peoples, and Buford Jones fondly bequeath their ability to create an uproar in study-hall during the absence of the teacher to Carl Emmert, Bill Russell, Edgar Phipps, J. V. Hobbs and Eugene Delaney.

Sixth, Fred Smith wills and bequeaths his Ford to Elizabeth Purvine and with true brotherly love leaves the most vital crank to "H." Smith. Seventh, Louie Kinch bequeaths to Alfred Kinney and Betts Cofer his love of scientific and historical research. And Haskell Owen bequeaths his ability to make verse and draw, both for the purpose of praising and satirizing to his brother, Hubert Owen.

Eighth, any of our beloved Juniors who may thus far feel ignored by this unanimous and impartial will shall receive the Chemistry equipment of the Chemistry II Class and all the privileges and emoluments thereof, if any.

Lastly, we, the Senior Class, do nominate and appoint the Sophomore Class of next year (1930) executors of our last will and testament.

In testimony whereof, we hereunto set our seal and declare this to be our last will and testament, in presence of the witnesses below, this tenth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand, nine hundred and twenty-nine.

ALONZO JASON TYLER,
Attorney-at-Law.

Signed, sealed, and declared and published by the said class of '29 as their last will and testament, in presence of us, who, at their request and in their presence and the presence of each other, have subscribed our names as witnesses hereto:

CHARLES PURVINE, residing at Bristol, Tenn.
BUFORD JONES, residing at Bristol, Tenn.
CHARLES GORE, residing at Bristol, Tenn.

Class Prophecy

TIME: 1940.

Years have passed and school days are over, but memories of the past still linger. It has been said that, "In the spring, a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," but it isn't true for me this spring, since I am an old man and a bachelor at that. Instead, my thoughts take another trend. As memories of the happy days spent at Tennessee High creep upon me, I wonder where my old schoolmates are, what has been their fate.

Growing drowsy with these various thoughts on my mind, I lay down and dropped off to sleep. I had a strange dream, just about my schoolmates. Various scenes from different spots of the universe flashed before me in my dream and I saw many of my friends. It was a peculiar sort of dream. In the visions that appeared before me, this is what my dream unfolded—

Seated at the head of the Latin Department of Princeton University was Professor Alonzo Jason Tyler, Jr., presiding over a class of 150 students, among whom were Pete Wilson, Harry Weiler and Robert Phipps. These three men were taking a graduate course in medicine and were being instructed and inspired by America's foremost Latin teacher, as well as by other great professors at Princeton.

Next Mr. Dan Cupid raised the curtain and showed me a real treat. In a cottage small, situated out in Fairmount, I saw Dot Peltier busily preparing supper for the Secretary of the "Y", and, knocking at the back door was Dana Smith, who wanted to borrow some sugar with which to sweeten somebody's coffee.

Out in the other end of town there was Sam Gray, lamenting the fact that his supper wasn't ready, since his better half had been to a bridge party.

Look! There's Margaret Hughlett driving down the Avenue in her new roadster with, well, I'll let you guess his name.

There is Hansel Peoples sitting on the porch of his handsome home, looking like a real householder. From the way he looks he must be the Mayor. Who is that in the swing? Is that his real Selfe?

In the social column of the Herald-Courier, I noted that the Kembles were to return soon from their brief vacation at Miami. Of course I mean Elizabeth McKee and Billy Kemble.

On an exploring party in Egypt, we find as the leader, Louie Kinch, accompanied by Eugene McClelland and Buford Jones. These daring men have uncovered many of the mysteries enveloped in the pyramids and tombs of ancient kings. A full account of the story was written in the New York Times by Miriam Robinson. Pathe News presented the story in pictures, photographed by a splendid cameraman, Carl Neal.

Dreams do strange things to you. Next I seemed to be in Baltimore in front of a large clothing store, with a big electric sign flashing the magnificent words, "IKEY GREEN, THE CLOTHIER." It fairly dazzled me.

Iva Carter's novels had become very popular and widely read. She was then in Africa at the head of her own exploring party seeking adventure and writing accounts of her experiences. The two chums, Mildred and Lois, had made a fortune in a peculiar way. These two ladies ran a great wholesale manufacturing company, which manufactured the famous "HAGY'S MAYONNAISE."

Do my eyes deceive me or are dream eyes not to be depended upon? Surely there is Frieda Gutman in the Congressional Library in Washington, and Elizabeth Swadley also in the same city engaged in government work.

One by one my classmates appear: There are Dorothea Riordan and Mary Ellen Witt in New York, buying for a large clothing concern in Winston-Salem.

At the University of Tennessee I see Elizabeth Neel engaged in the noble profession of teaching, and Katherine Ashby teaching music at V. I.

Charles Gore, lawyer, and Ward Morton, as electrician, are playing prominent parts in Bristol's welfare. Harry Lee Senter had at last secured a job suitable for him. He was working in a drug store, so he won't have to pay for what he eats.

Mary Henley McGhee, I see, is to be featured in the next Vitaphone production to be shown on Broadway.

I saw Fred Smith coaching the Vanderbilt football squad, formerly coached by Dan McGuggin. Also, Joe Talbert had succeeded as a professional baseball player, being a star twirler for the N. Y. Yanks.

Alys Macie Cochrane had become quite a great singer and was a prominent figure in society.

The love of adventure has lured George Jones to the life of a soldier and I saw him drilling in the far off Hawaiian Islands.

I noticed, in a large show window, Bertha Morris, demonstrating a new range. She was making fancy pastries and giving them to prospective buyers as samples of what could be cooked on this wonderful cooking apparatus.

It seemed that Aladdin with his wonderful lamp had nothing on Bertha, so great a magician was she in handling her machinery and in the delicious eats she produced.

Dreams and poets are always connected, aren't they? Now, I don't mean nightmares, I mean sweet dreams. "Wilt ask what profit e'er a poet brings?" The poet of the Senior Class of 1929, none other than Haskell Owen himself, appears in my dream lazily lying back in an editor's easy chair, and he looks perfectly happy; he ought to be, for he is the editor-in-chief of Poetry.

Do dreams come true? Who knows? I don't believe even the psychoanalysts can be sure. Anyhow, here endeth my dream.

I think perhaps you'll have to wait 'till 1940 to find out what kind of a dreamer I am.

—CHARLES PURVINE.
Class Prophet.

IN MEMORY

The night from the sunset steals those brighter hues
And leaves only darkness that covers the world.
The silence grows great when sweetthroated birds
So suddenly cease to sing.

Yet the song is no less in its beautiful ring
Because it was shortened: Ah, no; yet it seems
That the silence it left grows so great on our hearts
Its beauty we almost forget.

Yet, if the Almighty hath need of your voices,
For reasons we can't understand,
Then go you, remembering, that here,
in these halls,
We miss you—we loved you—
Farewell.

TENNESSEE-VIRGINIA GAME

FOOTBALL SQUAD

1928 Football Review

On September the fifth, Coach Barnhill issued a call for candidates for football. Thirty-eight (38) men responded; twelve (12) were 1927 letter men. Training began, and it was not long before three teams were rounded into form and preparations were being made for the first game.

On October 5th Coach and his first record teams went to Erwin for the first game of the season. The field was so muddy Tennessee Hi was unable to work as a single unit, and failed to put the ball over the four times it was within Erwin's ten yard line. Score—Erwin, 19; Tennessee Hi, 0.

October 15th Tennessee effected a comeback that will never be forgotten by the team and will long be remembered by the spectators, when the Maroon and White team defeated Kingsport on their own field by a score of 13-7. Tennessee went on the field with a determination and fight which Kingsport was never able to equal.

On October 20th the Maroon and White squad played their first home game of the season with Johnson City. Although the visitors played a hard and fierce game they were not able to stand up under the battering of the Maroon and White boys. At the close of the game Tennessee had won by a score of 13-2.

Tennessee easily defeated King College reserves November 3d by a score of 13-0. The reserves could not meet the fight handed out by the team which had defeated two of upper East Tennessee's best High School teams.

Ewing, Virginia, was the next to be defeated by the Maroon and White squad. The game was played November 9th on the home field, and Tennessee found little opposition from the Ewing team, giving them the 0 end of the 27-0 score.

On November 11th the Maroon and White squad added another victory to their list and advanced one more notch toward the East Tennessee Conference title. By this time the Maroon and White team was a seasoned and strong machine and the Mountain City team was repeatedly forced to give way for Tennessee's ball carriers. The final score was 25-7. The entire squad was entertained at a dinner tendered by Miss Owen and the girls of the Junior Class, November 29.

The climax and grand finale for the Maroon and White team came November 25th, when Tennessee and Virginia Hi met to decide the city championship. Both teams were equal in strength, weight and in number of victories. Virginia had her Feathers and Tennessee had her Herman. But the determination and fighting spirit of the Maroon and White team showed it to be the better team and once again Virginia took defeat; again the City Championship went to Tennessee. The score was 6-0.

The All-City team venture of Tennessee and Virginia was a great success. By the combined efforts of both Tennessee and Virginia, Bristol defeated by a 6-0 score the strong Central High team of Knoxville which had previously defeated Virginia, 28-6.

All football activities were brought to an official close December 18 at the Annual Football Banquet held in the Tennessee High School cafeteria. At this time the letter-men of 1928 and the Captain-elect for 1929 were announced. The Faculty, members of the School Board, and City Officials expressed their appreciation of the record made by the team during the successful season.

Thus 1928 football became a matter of history.

Boys' Basket-ball Review

The basket-ball season for the Maroon and White squad was successful, the team having won the majority of its games. With three regulars left from last year as a nucleus around which to build, Coach John Barnhill turned out a smooth working cage team. The guard position, vacated by Stuart Lee of last year's team, was ably filled by "Turtle" Talbert, and the pivot position was taken care of by "Short" Pettigrew. Wilson played his old position at guard. Gore and Purvine held down the forward positions. Gore and Pettigrew who played the first time as regulars, exhibited some fine basket-ball this season.

On January 11th, we opened the season with Elizabethton and were defeated by the score of 20-19. One week later, on our home floor, we got our revenge by beating the same team, 24-22. At Erwin, we won by the small count of 17-16. In one of the season's best games Tennessee defeated Kingsport, 39-31. The following week we again met Erwin on our home floor and they won by the score of 40-37 in a hard fought contest. The next two games were contests with Johnson City Hi. At Johnson City our team won, 35-15. On our home floor the Johnson City team again suffered defeat at the hands of Barnhill's cagesters, 35-20.

In the first game of the championship series with Virginia Hi, Tennessee lost, 18-17. Tennessee held the lead until the final moments of the game, when Bingham of Virginia made a "quill" shot to win by one point.

In the last game on our schedule we played Kingsport Hi for the "Big Five" championship. They won, 30-10, giving us the worst defeat of the entire season.

Tennessee High entered the tournament at Johnson City and "brought home the bacon." Five games were played and we won all of them. Mary Hughes, Doak Hi and Erwin were beaten by Tennessee Hi. In the finals, Jonesboro, who defeated Kingsport, was beaten 14-10. A large trophy and individual basket-balls were presented to eight Tennessee players.

Tennessee placed Talbert and Purvine on the all-tournament team.

By virtue of winning the district tourney we entered the state tournament held at Knoxville. Scott's Hill defeated us in the first game. Entered in the consolation tournament, we went to the finals having defeated Sevierville and Englewood. In the finals we played the Knoxville Hi quintet and were defeated 34-25. Our team was presented with a silver loving cup, as runner-up in the consolation tournament. Purvine was placed at forward on the All-State second team.

On Thursday of the following week we played Virginia Hi in the second game of the series and were defeated, 29-27. It was a glorious battle and the hardest fought contest ever witnessed between the two schools. It was a defeat that we were not ashamed of.

BASKET-BALL GIRLS

Girls' 1929 Basket-ball Review

City champions for the third consecutive year is a title to be proud of and one that the Tennessee High Girls' Basket-ball team holds. It is to the excellent work of Coach Baumgardner that the girls owe their victory.

Not a player was lost from last year's squad and only two will be lost this year—Peltier and Neel. The forwards—Davis, Owens, Edwards, Love, Keesling, and Burrow—showed up exceedingly well this year. Owens is high-point man with Davis a close second.

The guards—Steppe, Kensinger, Pelrier, Neel, Slack, and Keesling—showed their ability to stick and hold in all the games.

At the tournament the girls made a fine record for themselves, downing two teams with overwhelming scores only to run against Elizabethton in the semi-finals where they were defeated by a close score. Nell Owens made the All-Tournament team and two others, Dorothy Peltier and Gertrude Steppe, won honorable mention.

The season started with a tie but ended with a victory to be proud of—Tennessee High, 29—Virginia High, 11.

COACH—"Men, the game begins in five minutes—are you going to fight, or are you going to lay down?"

THE TEAM—"We will."

COACH—"What do you mean?"

THE TEAM—"We will not!"

COACH—"Good! That's the old Tennessee spirit."

Echos from the Past

(See Cadmea 1922)

I lives of Seniors all remind us
We should strive to do our best,
And, departing, leave behind us
Notebooks that will help the rest.

JOE T.—"If you had five dollars in your pocket what would you think?"

H. SMITH—"I'd think I had somebody else's pants on."

GERTRUDE—"Billy, do you think I ought to marry a man who does not tell me the truth?"

BILLY—"What's the matter with you, girl? Do you want to be an old maid?"

THE DOCTOR—"I'll sew that scalp wound for you for ten dollars."

J. TALBERT—"Gee, Doc, ain't that awful high? I just want plain sewing; I don't want any hemstitching or embroidery."

L. T.—"I heard that Miss Patrick said in the Biology Class that lions are near-sighted. What do you think?"

PURVINE—"I wouldn't go looking for one if they said it was stone-blind, would you, Lon?"

MR. CARDWELL—"Now, Harry Lee, name America's greatest general."

HARRY LEE—"General Motors."

MARGARET—"What do you think of 'Il Penseroso'?"

TED—"It's the best ten cent cigar on the market."

A garlic sandwich is two pieces of bread traveling in bad company.

J. B.—"I'm for a five-day week. How 'bout you?"

E. S.—"I'm for a five-day week-end."

Respected Infant—"Dear Miss," wrote a particular mother to the teacher, "Don't whip our Tommy. He isn't used to it. We never hit him at home except in self-defense."

SUB-FRESHMAN—"I hear all the Seniors have gone on a strike."

CHARLIE PURVINE—"What have they struck for?"

SUB-FRESHMAN—"Shorter hours."

C. P.—"Luck to 'em. I alway did say that sixty minutes was too long for an hour, didn't you, Lon?"

MR. T.—"I've just shot a dog."

MR. F.—"Was he mad?"

MR. T.—"Well, he wasn't very pleased."

Here is a notice recently published in a daily paper: "WARNING:—Unless the parties, who allow their police dogs to run at large, in the vicinity of the Fifth Street School building, are tied at once, they will be rounded up and shot."
